

AC Development Aid Employed

Robert L. Fienning of Duncan, Okla., has been appointed development associate at Austin College.

The college reported Friday that Fienning, former officer in Tri-County Well Service Inc. in Duncan, will retain his residence in Duncan and represent Austin College in Oklahoma in development work.

Fienning, father of a daughter who is a junior at Austin College, is a graduate of Earlham College with graduate study at the University of Cincinnati.

He is active in Presbyterian Church U. S. work. Fienning has served as elder, deacon, Sunday school Supt., commissioner to the General Assembly, moderator of the Mangum Presbytery, member of the board of trustees of Oklahoma Presbyterian Center at Durant, and member of the Presbytery and Synod's Christian education committee and camp committee. He has also been active as a Cub and Boy Scout Leader.

Fienning is a member of the Duncan Optimist Club, the alumni council of Earlham College, the American Petroleum Institute, and the Ardmore, Tulsa and Oklahoma City Geological Societies, and other organizations.
